

THINK/PAIR/SQUARE/SHARE: Before we watch the video, take a moment to consider how tasks to develop accuracy are different from those that develop fluency. Jot a few notes here:

Now turn to a partner and talk about your ideas. Next join another pair to form a “square” to discuss your thoughts.

Video Viewing Guide -- Tasks to Develop Oral Skills: From Accuracy to Fluency New American Horizons: http://www.newamericanhorizons.org/training-videos
Tasks to Develop Accuracy
On this side, make note of the particular tasks and what you noticed in the video.	On this side, make note of any thoughts, ideas or questions you have about the activities. Note the language and thinking skills that are practiced. Are there ways to make the activity more rigorous?
Total Physical Response (TPR)

Tasks to Develop Fluency

On this side, make note of the particular tasks and what you noticed in the video.

*On this side, make note of any thoughts, ideas or questions you have about the activities. Note the language and thinking skills that are practiced. Are there ways to make the activity more rigorous?

TABLE TALK DISCUSSION:

1) What stood out to you about the activities you saw in the video? What questions, if any, were raised for you? Were there activities you'd like to try in your classroom?

2) What language and thinking skills were practiced in the various activities? Are there ways to make the activity more rigorous?

3) Discuss the differences between tasks that focus on accuracy versus those that focus on fluency.