Say That Again? Virtual Pronunciation Instruction for ESL Learners – Two Part Session

It can be challenging to make yourself understood over the phone, even for native English speakers! In this session learn about three different pronunciation features that can be taught and practiced during virtual video instruction.

Participants will learn how the three features impact speakers' intelligibility, and explore activities designed to help learners practice using these features in their daily speech. All of the activities can easily be adapted for use in blended or in-person instruction.
